

ABSTRACT

A monitoring apparatus for use with an electrical appliance to record and display the electrical appliance's actual accumulated operating time and record and display the number of times the electrical appliance has been energized since the time the monitoring apparatus was installed or last reset. The monitoring apparatus may include a current detector, a time recorder, and a counter for detecting and recording operation time and number of start-ups.